AFTERCARE

Caring for Laminated Brows

The first 24 hours set your brows. After that, a little daily brushing and oil keeps them full, soft and in place for 6 to 8 weeks.

YOUR LOGO

| WHEN | WHAT'S NORMAL | DO | AVOID |
|---|---|---|---|
| First 24 hoursbrows are setting | Brows look very upright and set, and may feel stiff. Tint can leave a light skin stain for 1–2 days. | Keep brows completely dry. Sleep on your back. Try not to touch, rub or brush them yet. | Water, steam, sweat, workouts, brow makeup and any face products on your brows. |
| Days 2–7settling in | Hairs soften and settle. Brows can feel a little dry; a few hairs may stray out of place. | Brush brows into shape each morning. From day 2, a drop of nourishing brow oil nightly. | Steam and heavy sweat until 48 hours. Extra waxing or tweezing until 48 hours. |
| Weeks 2–6enjoy it | The shape holds well. Tint slowly softens. New hairs start to grow in at their own angle. | Keep brushing daily and oiling at night. Brow gel helps hold stray hairs in place. | Retinoids, acids, scrubs and peels on your brows. Tanning beds and long sun without SPF. |
| Weeks 6–8next visit | Brows gradually return to their natural direction as hairs grow and shed. That's normal. | Book your next lamination. Tell me about any new skincare, medication or health changes. | Laminating again sooner than 6 weeks, or a home kit; both can over-process brow hairs. |
