WHAT PMU IS
Pigment placed in the upper layers of skin with a needle or blade. It fades over 1 to 5 years and needs color boosts.

WHAT TO EXPECT
Redness and swelling for a few days, then flaking. Color looks dark at first, then lighter, then settles over 4 to 8 weeks.

NUMBING
A topical numbing cream may be used where local rules allow. Most clients feel scratching or pressure.

Possible risks

Infection. Rare with sterile tools and good aftercare. Watch for spreading redness, heat, pus or fever.

Allergic reaction. To pigment, numbing cream or balm. Can be delayed, appearing months or years later.

Uneven or asymmetric results. Skin heals unevenly. Some areas may need a touch-up to even out.

Color change over time. Pigment fades and can shift cooler, ashy, pink or warm with sun and skincare.

Migration or blurring. Pigment can spread beyond the lines, more often on oily or thin skin.

Scarring. Raised or textured skin, more likely if you form keloids or pick scabs.

Granuloma. Firm bumps that can form around pigment weeks or months later.

Koebner reaction. Psoriasis, vitiligo or lichen planus may flare in the treated skin.

Swelling, redness, bruising. Common for a few days. Lips and eyes swell more.

Removal is hard. Lightening or removal takes several sessions and can leave marks.

MRI: iron oxide pigments can rarely cause warmth or swelling in the area during an MRI. Tell your radiologist you have PMU. Never skip an MRI because of it. Laser treatments near PMU can darken the pigment, so tell any laser provider too.

Results depend on your skin type and tone, oiliness, age, health, medications, sun exposure, skincare and how closely you follow aftercare. Most clients need a perfecting touch-up 6 to 10 weeks later.

Please initial each statement

	Initials
I've read the risks above and had my questions answered. No specific result has been promised to me.
My health history is true. I'm not pregnant or breastfeeding, and I've listed all my medications.
I understand PMU is semi-permanent, fades unevenly, and needs a touch-up and future color boosts.
I approved my design and color before the procedure started.
I'll follow aftercare and contact you, and a healthcare provider, if signs of infection or allergy appear.
I've been offered a patch test and either completed it or signed the patch test waiver.
I understand removal or correction, if ever needed, costs extra and may take several sessions.
I release [Your Business Name] from claims caused by details I didn't share or aftercare I skipped, as [State] law allows.
I am 18 or older, not under the influence of alcohol or drugs, and signing of my own free will.
