AFTERCARE

Caring for Dip Powder Nails

Dip powder is strong and long-wearing, and a little daily care keeps it that way. These habits protect your manicure and the natural nails underneath.

YOUR LOGO

WHEN	WHAT'S NORMAL	DO	AVOID
Day one fully setting	Nails may feel thicker or a little snug. The top coat keeps hardening for a day.	Apply cuticle oil. Get used to the feel; use your finger pads, not your nail tips.	Very hot water, saunas, hot tubs and long soaks. Picking at any rough edge.
Weeks 1–2 everyday wear	Color stays glossy. A small gap shows at the cuticle as your natural nails grow.	Cuticle oil twice a day. Gloves for dishes, cleaning, gardening and any chemicals.	Using nails as tools. Acetone, solvents or harsh cleaners on bare hands.
Weeks 3–4 time for a new set	Growth is visible, and edges may start to chip or lift.	Book removal or a new set every [3–4] weeks. No lotion that day.	Clipping, filing down or regluing at home, or painting over a lift.
Removal professional only	Nails may feel dry or a little softer for a few days after the acetone soak.	Professional file-off and acetone soak. Cuticle oil and hand cream after.	Peeling, prying or biting off dip. It strips layers of your natural nail.

GOOD TO KNOW

- Cuticle oil keeps dip flexible and less likely to crack
- Hand sanitizer is fine; follow with cuticle oil
- Long baths soften dip; dry your hands well
- Lifting traps water; come in within [5–7] days
- Self-tanner and strong dyes can stain; wear gloves
- Your powder was a single-use portion, never shared

Oil daily
Morning and night, into skin and nail edges.

Wear gloves
For dishes, cleaning and chemicals.

Jewels, not tools
No prying lids or opening cans.

Fix it early
Lift or chip? Book a repair, don't glue.
